3RD QUARTER TREND

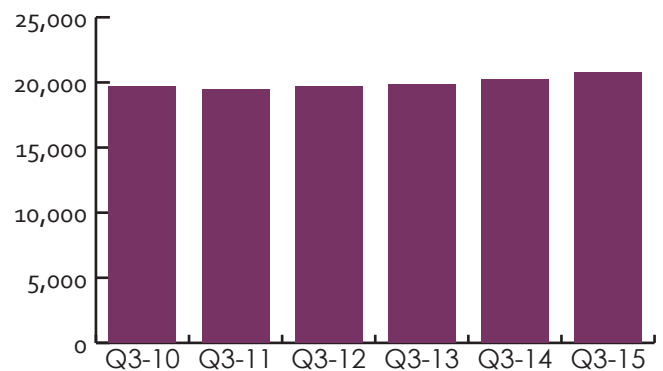

El Dorado Hills employment has increased again, up another .7% or 142 jobs from the previous quarter. There were 20,772 residents employed in Q3 15 after seasonal adjustment, up 11,286 jobs from the recession low in Q4 09.

Our employment numbers are obtained from the EDD and are a measure of the amount of El Dorado Hills citizens who are employed, but may actually work in another city. We have chosen these numbers because of timeliness and accuracy.

The EDD has stated the sudden increase in employment numbers can be attributed to two main factors. The change in census ratios is definitely a factor as it takes into account the growth in the County. The other factor is the recession, as the labor force grew exponentially in 2010 as the economy started to recover.

We expect this component to remain strong in the following quarters.
